Little Rascal

In your play-room, Billy Boy, you've lots of lovely toys,
 You know you have, you little rascal.
You've lots of games and books and things that don't make any noise,
 You know you have, you little rascal.
Yet you must go and bang your drum while Mummy tries to rest;
You know, you're very naughty, and deserve "six of the best."
And will your Daddy give them you for being such a pest?
 You know he won't, you little rascal!

Will you write each week from school to Mum and Dad in town?
 Of course you will, you little rascal.
Will you always add: "P.S.— Please send me half-a-crown?"
 Of course you will, you little rascal!
Your Daddy got some lickings, and you're bound to get the same,
But will you take them smiling? And own up when you're to blame?
And will you learn to be a man, and always play the game?
 I think you will, you little rascal.

The day will come when you will hitch your waggon to a star,
And then we shall be losing you, maybe to roam afar.
Oh! do we wish that time could only keep you as you are?
 Of course we do, you little rascal.
